Reviewer A:

Thank you for letting me review this study.

First, this article needs massive editing. I suggest to use English editing service to improve the academic writing.

Second, "to describe brief opinion". What does it mean by "brief"? We need more detail opinion, not only brief.

Third, the study design in this study is unclear. Reading all text, I suggest to use “A Qualitative Descriptive Study Design”. The explanation about a part of bigger study or pilot study should be explained in the ethical consideration.

Fourth, “The open-ended questions were arranged on the basis of the literature” – please provide the citations. Also, were the questions validated? It should be explained.

Fifth, provide the citation for “thematic analysis”. Whose thematic analysis that the authors used? It needs a reference. Also, did the authors use any softwares? Please explain.

Sixth, peer checking was done to ensure trustworthiness. Who are the peers? Please explain briefly.

Seventh, “participants directly answered all questions, which were provided in links”. What links? Google form? What platform? Please explain if there is chatting, texting or messaging in this study as another part of data collection. And, how long the participants need to send back their responses?

Eighth, written informed consent or online informed consent?

Ninth, the discussion should be restructured. First, describe each theme and compared to previous studies. Second, implications of this study for nursing practice and interprofessional collaboration. Third, limitations and recommendation for future research.

Recommendation: Revisions Required

Reviewer B:

An important study. Just two minor points.

I don't think the authors conduct a thematic analysis as the themes had been decided in the interview questions earlier. So, please clarify and explain. For me, it is just a descriptive analysis of the participants' answers based on interview questions. However, citation is needed.

Provide the real implications of this study, the new knowledge.

Recommendation: Revisions Required
