Reviewers' comments:

Reviewer #1: This is an interesting study, however, I still have some comments:

1. The paragraph was too brief, what kind of statistical analysis used in this study? Pearson Correlation Coefficient for Table 2 ? Paired t-test for Figure 1B and 2? You should write in detailed in Methods paragraph.
2. Besides, for Figure 1B and Figure 2 need corresponding statistical results Tables to show the results.
3. Actually, the authors did not discuss the Figure 1B and Figure 2 in detailed, for example, why LAD(-) and LAD(+) did not show statistically significant difference?
4. Poor writing of overall manuscript: main results did not show statistical results to support.

Reviewer #3: The Authors describe a valuable and reliable method to assess EF in clinical practice after PCI

-In Materials and Methods the Authors should explain what type of CAD patients underwent elective PCI

-Please describe the limitations of GLPSAvg in this subset of patients (CAD patients)

Dear Mr. Mark Williams,

Thanks for your kind response.

In your email, it was offered 2 prize of fee:

1. "we are ready to provide you with 50% discount on the publication fee and request you to pay $450 as the final publication charges."
2. "we are ready to provide you with 25% discount on the publication fee and request you to pay $1145 as the final publication charges."

In the current of Biomed Res impact factor and it is has not been indexed in the Medline (PubMed), I am wondering that you would not agree if we think that the best price for current papers is no.1.

In addition, number of the figures in our paper is 2 and therefore it can be put on 2 pages instead of 3 pages.

I apologize for any inconvenience.

Best wishes,

Udin Bahrudin
