ABSTRACT

This article aims to provide an overview and understanding of intellectual property rights in Indonesia during the covid 19 pandemic. The pandemic that occurred in Indonesia had an extraordinary impact on various fields of Indonesian people's lives. A pandemic condition becomes an obstacle for everyone to carry out their normal activities, and it is a challenge for everyone to survive in the covid 19 pandemic. This research was conducted using normative juridical research methods with emphasis on secondary data. Indonesia continues to carry out its duties to provide legal protection for intellectual property rights and continue to provide intellectual property registration services to be registered. Indonesian Ministry of Law and Human Rights carries out coercive agreements in order to register and protect pandemic privileges in the country 19. Indonesian people must be able and able to produce intellectual work that can improve good quality during the pandemic, both economically and psychologically (emotionally).

INTRODUCTION

Intellectual property is wealth that arises or is born from human intellectual abilities. The works that arise or are born from human intellectual property can be in the form of works of technology, science, art and literature. These works were born or produced on the intellectual ability of humans through the outpouring of time, energy, thought, creativity, taste, and work. The works produced from human intellectuals have economic value or benefit for the owner of the work and have benefits for human life in general.

IPR is a right that comes from the work, intention, and creativity of human intellectual abilities that have benefits and are useful in supporting human life and have economic value. Intellectual property has economic value that is able to bring various benefits to the owner. The development of a knowledge-based economy has become a millennia trend¹. The scope of IPR is quite broad covering a variety of rights arising from the existence of products of human thought and continues to develop both in terms of quality and quantity, in accordance with the development of human life and creativity. Intellectual property that is produced through human intelligence or thought and has economic value, can be said to be a commercial asset. Commercial assets in the form of human intellectual works can be protected through legal instruments of intellectual property rights, namely copyrights, patents, brands, geographical indications, industrial designs, trade secrets.

HOUSING DISCRIMINATION WHILE FORMING CIVIC SPACE AND FUNDAMENTAL FREEDOMS IN TERMS OF CRISIS OF THE STATEHOOD DEVELOPMENT OF UKRAINE

ABSTRACT

The article is focused on the problem of housing discrimination in Ukraine in the formation of civic space and fundamental freedoms in terms of crisis of the statehood development of Ukraine. The relevance of the topic is due to the lack of modern research on housing discrimination in Ukraine while it is actually present. The main categories of the research are the right to housing, discrimination, housing discrimination. It is stated that housing discrimination is a restriction of the right to housing resulting that a person is not able to purchase housing and stably live there. A vulnerable group of persons, in particular internally displaced persons, families with children, homosexual couples, etc. most often faces housing discrimination. Ukrainian legislation does not single out housing discrimination as an independent legal category. It has been concluded that housing discrimination is a situation, when a person and/or group of persons on the grounds of race, color, political, religious and other beliefs, sex, age, disability, ethnic and social origin, citizenship, marital and property status may experience restrictions on the recognition, realization or use of the right to housing, in particular obtaining housing, living there, conducting self-isolation there, exercising private life. The fact of housing discrimination can be established if a person is unable to realize his right to housing on one of the following grounds: sex, nationality, citizenship, sexual orientation, living with a family without registration of marriage; the presence of children and animals; internal movement, age, etc. Discrimination can be manifested in the refusal to enter into a lease/rental agreement, to extend this agreement, to unreasonably raise the rent.

Keywords: Right to Housing, Discrimination, Vulnerable Persons, Residence, Housing, Fundamental Human Rights, Restrictions

INTRODUCTION

Housing discrimination in Ukraine is not currently considered as an independent legal concept, it is not distinguished in the field of social security. Unfortunately, due attention is not paid to cases of discrimination against the housing rights of vulnerable persons at the state and society levels, in particular the disabled, persons of non-traditional sexual orientation, war veterans, victims of domestic violence, large families and internally displaced persons. At the same time, this category of persons is represented by a significant segment of Ukrainian society. Thus, 2,700,000 people in Ukraine have disabilities as of January 1, 2020, including 222.3 thousand people with group I disability, 900.8 thousand people with group II disability, 1416.0 thousand people from group III disability and 163.9 thousand children with disabilities (The
