Dr Rondeau

Kent Rondeau, Associate Professor, School of Public Health, University of Alberta, Edmonton, Alberta, Canada

EDITOR IN CHIEF

Although Dr Kent Rondeau's graduate academic preparations are strongly concentrated in the fields of organizational behaviour and theory, his research interests focus on better understanding of the seminal contribution that human resources play in creating high performance health care organizations and health systems. He employs a broad array of methodological approaches in his research, although many others utilize survey methods and quantitative analysis. Most of his research studies focus on exploring how organizational and health system
