Overview

Decisions in Economics and Finance is a specialized forum for research on mathematics applied to various economic and social sciences.

Publishes research in all areas of mathematics applied to economics, finance, insurance, management, and the social sciences.

Gives priority to research that explores topics in mathematics or computational techniques that are motivated by or contribute to the analysis of economic or financial problems.

The main topics of interest are decision theory and decision analysis, mathematical economics, mathematical finance, actuarial mathematics, and optimization.

Special interest in fundamentals, which are addressed through targeted initiatives, such as the Milestones Series, that revisit key contributions to the field.

Official publication of the Association for Mathematics Applied to Social and Economic Sciences.
